

The health status section of this report is organized into a life course framework in order to encourage analysis and collaboration around life stages. It is hoped that dialogue by stakeholders will ideally include the categories described below in Figure 34. A few examples are noted below. The community guide is a useful resource for evidence-based strategies.

Resource:

The Guide to Community Preventive Services developed by the Center of Disease Control is an excellent resource for evidence-based strategies (www.thecommunityguide.org).

In addition the Search Institute provides valuable information on evidence-based protective factors, or assets, for youth (www.search-institute.org).
